

The Hogarths and their Home - Get Creative!

William Hogarth was an artist who lived 300 years ago.
This is his house. He lived here with his wife Jane and their pet dog.

The Hogarths wanted more space in their home so they built more rooms.
William also designed a pretty window to add to their parlour or sitting room.

This what Hogarth's House looks like today.

The orange part is what the Hogarths added to their home.

Think about it.

How do houses and extensions look different today?
If you could change your house, how would you do it?

Your turn!

Write about it.

Write a short story about the Hogarths living in their home.

Try using words with these suffixes or word endings:

-er -tion
-ed -ing

For example: biggerer or seeinging

Build it.

Have a go at designing and building your own home.

Draw the plans for your house.

Can you build it? Try using card or cartons from the recycling bin.
Wow! You are an architect!
